Notice of Last Buy Opportunity for EU customers: INS series

Dec 7, 2016

Dear Valued NoiseKen Customer,

This letter is to officially inform that Noise Laboratory Co., Ltd. will discontinue the sale of all of the INS series products to customers in EU (European Union) member countries on 22 of July 2017, since RoHS Directive 2011/65/EU, under which the INS series products using a mercury switch are prohibited for import to EU member countries, comes into force to cover the relevant product category (industrial monitoring and control instruments)

Noise Laboratory Co., Ltd. cannot set a clear deadline as to until when an order can be accepted. June production lot is planned two months earlier, say, April. Then April will be an assured time frame for us to proceed to orders and to ship them safely in time.

This notice only applies to customers in EU member countries.

As with all of other NoiseKen products, we will provide support for the INS series products for a full eight years after shipment.

A new product, replacing the existing INS series products, by using a solid-state HV switch but not mercury switch is under development. Unfortunately, however, we cannot state its market launch time at this moment.

If you have possible testing needs with the NoiseKen long-seller INS products, we would appreciate your contacting our European distributors.

Sincerely,

Noise Laboratory Co., Ltd.
